Japanese Maples

subject to availability

Japanese Maples can provide a striking focal point, be the perfect plant to set off a large container, or grow into an impressive bonsai specimen. Often prized as living sculptures in the garden, there are hundreds of Japanese maple varieties that come in various sizes with a large assortment of leaf shapes and colors that range from shades of green to orange, red, purple, and variegated. We offer an exciting selection every year, but please note: All Japanese maples are limited in quantity.
